Leadership Skills

Directions: Today, we're going to reflect on all the useful skills we possess in order to develop our leadership skills with an Identity Chart. This kind of chart is designed to help you identify your unique qualities and traits. We can use this tool to reflect on the skills we see in ourselves as well as what others see in us. We may not always agree with how others may view us, but it helps us gain insight into ourselves. Your name goes at the center of the chart. In the boxes around your name, you will list leadership qualities that you possess.
